LBJ Signs New Tax Bill; Withholding Begins Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) President Johnson signed Friday the bill adding 10 per cent to most taxpayers' income tax and requiring him to cut his budget $6 billion if Congress itself does not do so.

In 15 days, employers must begin withholding an additional 10 per cent from employees' pay.

Even so, because the tax is retroactive to April 1 for individuals, an estimated 1 to 2 million taxpayers will owe an additional sum next April, while some 60 million will receive smaller refunds than they would have otherwise.

Those in the lowest bracket are exempt.

For corporations, the extra tax applies to the full 1968 income.

The new law, over which Congress and the executive branch have been tussling for most of a year, also provides a speed-up of corporation tax collections.

It continues the excise taxes on automobiles at 7 per cent and telephone service at 10 per cent, instead of letting them drop to 2 per cent and 1 per cent respectively as existing law provided.

The combination of tax measures is estimated to yield $15.2 billion in the year starting July 1. The surtax expires at the end of that year unless extended, but there already is talk that an extension will be required.

As Johnson signed the bill, he issued a statement saying the $6 billion in spending cuts he imposes is too much. He said Congress will be unable to slice that much from the budget he submitted in January.

Johnson called his budget lean and tight, but said he accepted the mandatory spending cuts "because the tax bill is so imperative to the economic health of the nation."

He described as most unwelcome the shifting of responsibility for cutting spending from Congress to the President. He said Congress also acted unwisely in requiring federal employment to be rolled back to the level of two years ago.

But with enactment of the tax bill, Johnson said the nation has passed a critical test and Congress has fulfilled an important responsibility. He noted that raising taxes is never pleasant especially in an election year.

The President said Congress should have acted sooner and its decision should never have been in doubt. He indicated there will be further proposals in the future to change tax rates to keep the economy moving.

Security Rules Extreme At Sirhan's Hearing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan—slight, erect, expressionless—walked into a heavily guarded jail chapel Friday and received a three-week postponement of his plea to a charge of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"Yes, sir," the 24-year-old Jordanian immigrant responded politely three times to the judge's questions. Sirhan was nearly dwarfed by four husky sheriff's deputies who stood near him throughout the nine-minute hearing.

The delay was asked by veteran criminal attorney Russell E. Parsons, who took over Sirhan's defense, at the accused's request and without fee, nine days ago. Parsons said he had only "limited time" to study the transcript of grand jury testimony.

The hearing was held in the third-floor chapel of the Los Angeles County Central Jail—a large, oblong, plain room with oak pews for about 350 persons.

Around 175 attended—news men, plainclothes detectives, a score or more members of the public. Sirhan's brother Adel, 29, escorted by several police detectives, was a front-row spectator.

Security measures were extreme. Deputies frisked spectators—even Sheriff Peter J. Pichess—as they reached the building. Pocket knives were temporarily confiscated—even a money clip with a pen knife in it.

There was a television crew from Rome, along with reporters from France and other lands.

The proceedings, scheduled for 9 a.m., went like this: 9:03 a.m. A deputy announces that "anyone who stands or moves about will be removed from the courtroom."

9:05. Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer takes his place, standing, behind a lectern at the rear of the platform. For the stenotypist's record he announces that "these facilities"—the jail chapel instead of a regular courtroom—are to insure the defendant's security."

Then: "Bring in the defendant."

Sirhan and the four deputies enter from a door onstage to the audience's right.

Still not fully recovered from finger and ankle injuries received during his capture at the assassination scene, he has been brought by wheelchair from his cell to outside the courtroom.

But now—on contrast to his arraignment in the same room on June 7—Sirhan is able to walk into the chapel.

GOP Plans Convention Security

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Flak jackets, sniper rifles and a six-foot fence hidden by a flowering hedge are some of the pillars in a defense perimeter planned for the convention hall where Republicans will nominate their presidential candidate.

Miami Beach Police Chief Rocky Pomerance said Friday his problem is "a peculiar dichotomy, maximum security with low visibility policing."

Pomerance said two areas outside the fence would be set aside for picketing and that plans had been made to prevent any demonstrations, such as lie-ins, that could disrupt the proceedings.

"We are prepared and completely determined that this convention will be a peaceable one and that delegates and alternates will be free to come and go at their will," Pomerance said in an interview.

The City Council Wednesday approved a police request to purchase what was described as security equipment for the convention. The list included 40 shotguns, 20 combat flak jackets, three 30.06 Remington rifles with telescopic sights described as "sniper rifles," and 50 smoke grenades.

Nation's Living Costs Continue To Spiral; No Letup in Sight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs continued climbing in May at an annual rate of more than four cents on the dollar and a federal official said Friday no letup is in sight in the nation's steepest price rise in 17 years.

"The upward trend of prices will continue for several months," said Assistant Commissioner Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Sharp increases in prices of clothing and food led the overall rise of three-tenths of one per cent in living costs last month, pushing the government's Consumer Price Index to 120.3. The index shows it cost $12.03 in May to buy goods and services which cost $10 in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

The average cost of food, clothing, housing, transportation, medical care and recreation measured in the index was 4.1 per cent above May 1967 and climbing at the same rate so far in 1968.

The Bureau reported that average wages of 45 million rank-and-file workers, more than half the nation's labor force, rose $1.59 a week to a record high of $106.03 because of a two-cent rise in average hourly earnings and a longer work week.

But because of rising prices, purchasing power of the average paycheck was still 37 cents a week below the high point of last year.

Chase said the recently enacted 10 per cent income tax surcharge will have some effect on slowing the upward price spiral, but not for several months.

The tax hike will reduce take-home pay and workers' purchasing power and result first in weakening demand for durable goods such as automobiles and household appliances, Chase said.

Clothing prices rose nine-tenths of one per cent in May, food four-tenths, housing and medical care three-tenths each and transportation one-tenth. Recreation costs were up three-tenths of one per cent.

The value of the 1968 dollar compared with that of 1957-59 dropped from 83.4 cents in April to 83.1 cents in May.

Vietnam War Critics Want Open Convention

CHICAGO (AP) — Critics of the Vietnam War plan a week-end meeting to push for an open Democratic Convention.

The conference, called only Monday, has just been given a formal name: Coalition for an Open Convention.

The ultimate aim is to seek the presidential nomination for a candidate who shares the anti-war views of the participants.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, a critic of the Johnson administration's war policies who is campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, is scheduled to arrive in Chicago early Sunday afternoon. But a spokesman for the McCarthy for President Committee of Illinois said Friday that the senator is not expected to attend the conference in the Sherman House. He is coming for a rally Sunday night in the Auditorium Theater. It was postponed from June 9 because of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's death.

Allard K. Lowenstein, Democratic candidate for Congress in New York's 5th District and a prime mover in calling the conference for an open convention, has said the meeting has no official connection with McCarthy's candidacy. He also said it is not a "stop Humphrey movement." Since Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is regarded as the leading contender for the Democratic nomination, any move to keep the convention open might be considered as an effort to hold him back.

Saigon Defenders Preparing For Another Enemy Attack

SAIGON (AP) — Saigon's defenders broke out extra machine guns, sand bags and barbed wire Friday night with Viet Cong and North Vietnamese infiltrators reported pushing closer to the capital for a possible new attack.

Though there were no reports of significant new action in and around Saigon, Vietnamese forces were on full alert.

The heightened alert was attributed in part to information obtained from two high-ranking Viet Cong officers captured within the past few days by South Vietnamese troops. One captive, a lieutenant colonel or colonel in the enemy command's capital military district, gave the South Vietnamese "important" tactical information about the planned new offensive, sources said. American officers said U.S. troops in the Saigon environs were on normal alert status. "We're as fully alert as all the time," said one. "Our whole set-up across the country is to be 100 per cent ready all the time."

Although 12,500 enemy troops are believed to be hiding in the jungled, marshy terrain around Saigon, South Vietnamese sources reported only small-scale enemy movements—presumably scouting parties—Friday night.

Intelligence sources said, however, that enemy infiltration into the capital military district had been stepped up within the past two days. A Viet Cong prisoner, seized after he strayed from his unit, was quoted as saying he was among 200 enemy troops who infiltrated into Gia Dinh, a suburb north of the city, Thursday night.

Several big guns and recoilless rifles have been positioned at the Binh Loi Bridge in Gia Dinh, gateway to the capital.

At military headquarters inside Saigon, nerve center for combat operations around the capital, defenses were bolstered with additional machine guns, sand bags and barbed wire. The U.S. Command has 6,000 troops on the edges of Saigon and another 4,000 stationed inside the city.

U.S. officers say the aim of another assault on Saigon is to strengthen Hanoi's bargaining position at the peace talks in Paris.

Texas Senator Tower To Endorse Nixon

(C) N. Y. Times News Service LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., the dominant figure in his state's 56-vote delegation to the Republican National Convention, is expected to endorse Richard M. Nixon for president on Monday.

Authoritative sources on Capitol Hill, reached by telephone said the announcement would be made at a news conference in Washington.

A Nixon endorsement by Tower would deal a critical, perhaps fatal, blow to the presidential candidacy of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York. His strategists have been counting on Tower's favorite-son candidacy to keep Texas out of the Nixon column on early ballots at the convention.

According to the sources, Tower no longer plans to have his name placed in nomination but to work instead in Nixon's behalf.

Reports of the conservative Texas senator's decision reached the Rockefeller party during a day of campaigning in the ferocious midsummer heat of Nebraska, Oklahoma and Arkansas. The first reaction of those close to the governor was guarded.

"This hurts us," one associate said, "but it doesn't mean we can't sway some of the people who are for Dick at the moment. It's tough, but it's always been tough."

The timing of Tower's projected announcement was apparently related to Rockefeller's plans to visit Texas tomorrow. He is to spend the day in San Antonio, touring the HemisFair '68 exposition and talking with the delegates.

Not All Welshmen Happy About Their Future Prince

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — Nationalist placards and the tossing of certain missiles—a firecracker, an orange and an egg—showed Prince Charles Friday that not all Welshmen are happy he is to become the Prince of Wales.

Heavily guarded, the 19-year-old heir to the British throne paid his first major visit to Wales. He toured four cities as part of a summer program to learn the workings of British government offices. Accompanied by his father, Prince Philip, he got a mixed reception.

The minor bombardment of the royal party came as Charles was visiting the government's Welsh Office, the scene of a recent time-bomb explosion.

The firecracker, thrown by a girl, exploded several yards from the prince. The orange, tossed by a boy, burst on a police car. The egg missed. The throwers were arrested. Charles was given a generally warm welcome by a crowd of 400, but 30 Welsh home rule demonstrators waved antiroyalist placards and chanted Welsh language slogans.

"Charles, another burden," one of the placards protested. Another said: "No foreign prince."

A similar theme was followed in an orderly demonstration by a half dozen youths at the Llanelli town hall. They displayed placards including the declaration: "Revolution yes, prince no."

Charles is due to be invested as Prince of Wales in July 1969. Dissidents consider he is being used to keep Wales tied to the central government in London.

Security precautions for his one-day tour, which also took in Swansea and Port Talbot, were elaborate.

Police leaves were cancelled and extra men were assigned to the spots Charles visited. Guards were stationed on Cardiff rooftops, a measure believed unprecedented for a royal visit in Wales.

Other officers sought Welsh extremists believed responsible for a blast 150 miles north of Cardiff that severely damaged a pipeline carrying about one-quarter of Liverpool's water supply from a reservoir in the Welsh mountains.

Water from the ruptured pipe flooded an adjacent railway line.

Bits of wire and what was believed to be part of a timing device were found on the scene. Police refrained from publicly blaming anyone, but officials said Welsh extremists were believed to have timed the blast with Charles' visit.

Nationalists have long objected to the use of Welsh land for reservoirs to supply water to the English cities of Liverpool and Birmingham.

Water pressure in the Liverpool area and a large part of the English Midlands was reduced. It was estimated 5 million gallons escaped from the pipe which, officials said, would take three days to repair.

Veteran Officer Attacks Body Count Practice

WASHINGTON (AP) — A veteran Army intelligence officer has attacked the body count as practiced in Vietnam as a "devious and possibly dangerous measurement for determining the enemy's combat potential."

LT. Col. Richard A. McMahon suggested the time has come to do away with this method of counting and reporting North Vietnamese and Viet Cong losses.

McMahon, who served in an intelligence assignment in Vietnam, expressed in the Army Association's Monthly publication what many other officers have said privately.

"Some U.S. units in Vietnam really count bodies," he said. "Others probably never do, but report whatever body count would be expected for a particular action."

Intelligence estimates and operations plans "based on exaggerated enemy casualties can result in disaster," McMahon said.

The intelligence specialist suggested that as South Vietnamese army units began realizing that their efficiency was judged by their count of enemy bodies, "these figures rose remarkably."

"Anyone who believes a U.S. adviser checks on ARVN South Vietnamese Army body count, corpse by corpse, either has not been to Vietnam or, if he has, has never gotten out of Saigon," McMahon said.

Military sources here and in Vietnam have said privately in the past that the body count evolved, at least in part, from the insistence of top Washington officials, including former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, for some measurement, some statistic to gauge progress in a war which has no battle lines.

Poor People Supporters Arrested on Capitol Steps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police arrested 77 persons Friday as they demonstrated on the Capitol steps in support of the Poor People's Campaign.

The group included about 30 Quakers—members of the Society of Friends—who held a half-hour meeting or service on a sun-baked Capitol plaza before joining the others to be arrested.

Demonstrations on Capitol grounds are illegal.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and leader of the anti-poverty campaign, was arrested Monday for staging such a demonstration. He now is serving a 30-day jail sentence.

Among those jailed Friday were Hosea Williams, 42, a husky, bearded Negro who is a demonstrations leader for the campaign, and the Rev. Nor-

French Election Campaigning Ends Today

PARIS (AP) — Campaigning for the runoff round of France's parliamentary elections ends Saturday with a scheduled TV address by President Charles de Gaulle that has drawn cries of "foul" from the opposition.

Anti-Gaullists protested that the president's speech will violate a legal ban on use of the state-owned radio and television for electoral propaganda on election eve.

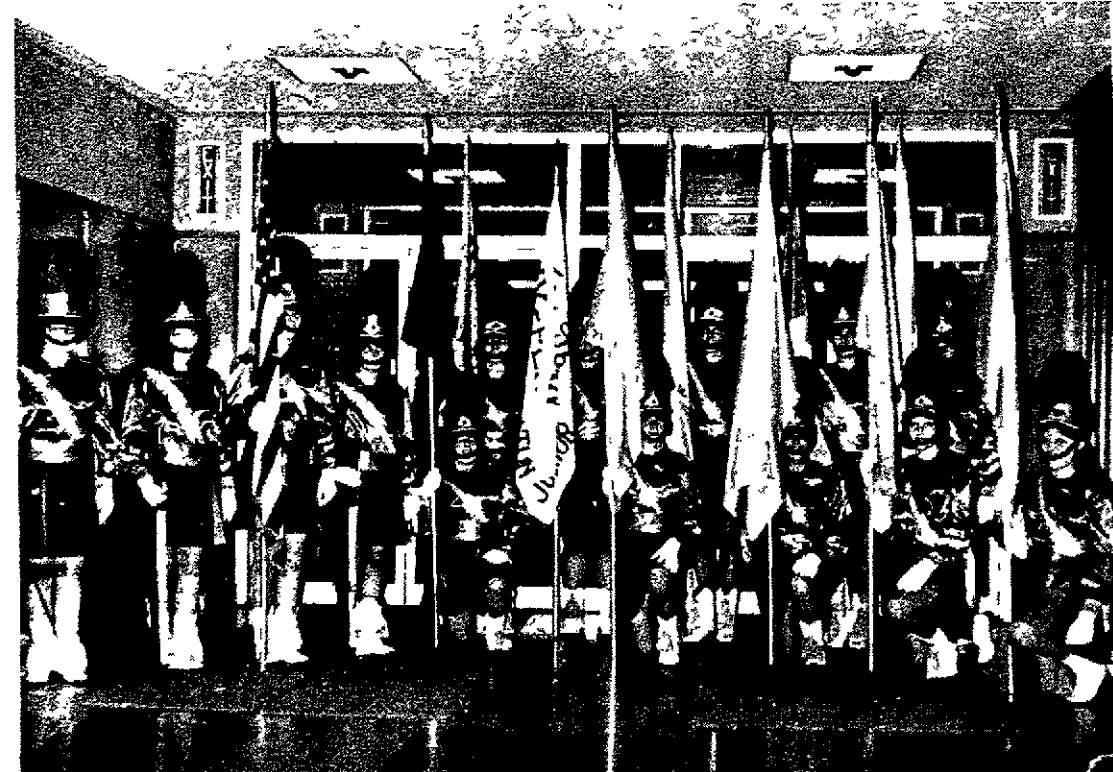

De Gaulle was expected to urge a big voter turnout Sunday. In the first round last Sunday, 142 Gaullist deputies were elected in metropolitan France, to six communists, four centrists and two independents. The president's supporters appeared set to win an overwhelming majority in the 487-seat National Assembly.

De Gaulle called the elections during the May-June upheaval of workers and students that had the 77-year-old soldier-statesman's government reeling. Frenchmen voted strongly for Gaullist candidates after a campaign in which De Gaulle played heavily on fears of a possible Communist takeover.

Rockefeller, McCarthy Meet on Campaign Trail

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and U.S. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy met by chance Friday at the Oklahoma City airport a few hours after Rockefeller sharply criticized McCarthy's plan to go to the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, but the criticism was not mentioned.

The two presidential campaigners shook hands cordially and exchanged pleasant greetings.

Their paths crossed as Rockefeller was preparing to board his chartered airliner to fly to Arkansas, while McCarthy's plane touched down for his speaking engagement at a Democratic dinner in Oklahoma City.

A few hours earlier, the Republican governor had told a news conference in Lincoln, Neb., it would be "a tragedy for Americans" if the Vietnam peace talks were impeded by McCarthy's plans to visit with the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris. Rockefeller Edwards was admitted to Warren General Hospital where his condition was listed as satisfactory.

Shaver was charged with a right of way violation. Damage was set at $1,100. Warren firemen washed gasoline from the street.

Senators Support Colleague Clark

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — One-tenth of the U.S. Senate assembled here Friday night to campaign for the re-election of their Democratic colleague, Joseph S. Clark Jr. of Pennsylvania.

The occasion was a $100 fund-raising dinner sponsored by Clark supporters. A similar affair, with 10 other U.S. senators, will be held in Pittsburgh July 12.

Wearing large Clark buttons were Senators Frank Church of Idaho, Philip Hart of Michigan, Vance Hartke of Indiana, George McGovern of South Dakota, Lee Metcalf of Montana, Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, William Proxmire of Wisconsin, Ralph Yarborough of Texas and Stephen Young of Ohio. All, of course, are Democrats.

About 900 other persons attended the dinner.

All the senators, participating in a joint news conference, were unanimous in refusing to be committed as to their preference for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I came here to talk for Clark, no one else," Yarborough said. "Everyone is uncommitted for President, which is a pretty strong position for all of us to take," said Church.

The visiting senators all noted that they have canceled other engagements in their own states—including talks in their own re-election campaigns—just to give Clark, a former Philadelphia mayor, a strong boost.

Clark is seeking a third, six-year term and is opposed by Republican congressman Richard S. Schweiker.

Asked whether their presence in such concentrated numbers meant that Clark may be in trouble in his re-election bid, Yarborough replied:

"I don't know anything about that but Clark is important to the country, he is needed and he must be returned."

The Texas said there is a need for a strong Senate "and we lost Robert Kennedy and we can't afford to lose any more good men."

The Senators advanced other reasons for campaigning for Clark.

Hartke said Clark is "a builder and an innovator and he is the kind of national leader we must keep."

Penn described Clark "a great senator who must be returned to serve six more years."

Church said Clark "has been a foremost advocate for peace and for disarmament and has rendered a valuable service to the Senate and to the country."

Young described Clark as "one of the best senators we've ever had."

Proxmire, Hart and Metcalf all said the Senate would be the loser if Clark loses in November.

State Association Issues Fireworks Warning

If everyone stays off the highways over the Fourth of July holiday, accident statistics will be less on July 5th, right? Maybe.

While staying safe and sound "in your own backyard," statistics are being compiled for injuries caused by fireworks.

The Pennsylvania Association for the Blind is reminding Pennsylvanians that the illegal sale of fireworks containing any explosive substance such as firecrackers, skyrockets, Roman candles and sparklers poses a serious threat to eye-sight.

The sale or use of any type of fireworks can result in punishment by fine or imprisonment or both.

The Association urges all citizens to follow these suggestions for a safe and sane Fourth of July and a happy July 5:

1. Don't permit children to purchase fireworks from fraudulent dealers or through the mail.

2. If a child obtains fireworks, determine the source and notify local law enforcement authorities.

3. Assist authorities to locate those who deal in illegal fireworks sales.

4. Do not buy or use fireworks. Take the family to the Jaycee Fourth of July public display where fireworks can be enjoyed in safety.

5. If you must use fireworks, use them safely.

6. If you must use fireworks, use them safely.

7. If you must use fireworks, use them safely.

8. If you must use fireworks, use them safely.

9. If you must use fireworks, use them safely.

10. If you must use fireworks, use them safely.

11. If you must use fireworks, use them safely.

12. If you must use fireworks, use them safely.

Public Welcome

Mayor, Citizens Group Exchange Heated Words

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A citizens group charging police brutality crowded into Mayor Joseph M. Barr's office Friday and engaged the mayor and other city officials in a spirited, sometimes heated, discussion. "Utterly silly," was the mayor's response to one of their demands.

And a citizen, wagging a finger in the air, declared, "There wasn't a black policeman seen at No. 5 police station the night that this happened."

The group charged that Wade Hampton, 19, a Negro of Pittsburgh's East Liberty section suffered severe bruises and a broken leg while in police custody after his arrest last Saturday at an East Liberty pizza parlor.

Hampton, confined to Pittsburgh Hospital, has been charged with intoxication, resisting arrest and aggravated assault and battery.

The citizens group, numbering about 30 and most of them civil rights representatives, filed into the mayor's office along with a handful of newsmen.

They handed the mayor a petition demanding "the immediate suspension of the officers involved in the arrest."

"Utterly silly," said the mayor. He explained that the law prohibits him from suspending policemen until certain procedures are followed. "I don't want to convict anybody until we have a thorough and fair investigation," he said.

The group asked the mayor to investigate "the actions of both officers involved in the incident and also of the officers involved in the subsequent events at the station house."

The Rev. J. G. Harris, pastor of St. James Afro-American Episcopal Church in the East End, said, "In a case like this, I think the mayor should take a personal interest."

"I have," the mayor replied, "ever since I heard about it on Monday."

John P. Kelly, assistant superintendent for internal affairs in the police department, said he hasn't even been able to talk to Hampton.

"I also asked the parents to refrain from giving any publicity to this," he said. "These are tough enough cases to investigate. There are rumors and rumors a n d rumors that have to be checked out."

Kelly also said the city probe has suffered a "complete freeze" because the FBI has started its own investigation under civil rights legislation dealing with accusations of police brutality.

The session broke up with plans for another meeting after the investigation is completed, possibly next week.

Meanwhile, the FBI declined comment.

State Police Sergeant Didn't Shoot The Bull

ERIE — A State Police sergeant, recently promoted and transferred from the Warren substation, participated in an unusual chase Thursday morning.

Sgt. George Barron and Trooper Joseph Neid were called upon when a far from bovine bull escaped from an area slaughter house and took off along Route 19 for about half an hour.

The episode started about 9:30 a.m. when troopers at Lawrence Park barracks received a distress call from the Gartner-Hart Company, a meat packing firm and slaughter house at RD 4, Waterford.

According to reports, the bull, unhappy at the prospect of becoming a pile of hamburger, made a break after being knocked on the head twice. He jumped over one worker, broke out of the holding pen, dashed out of the building, crossed Route 19 and headed north into wooded terrain.

Barron and Neid sped to the scene and started a house to house canvass to warn residents. Minutes later the bull was seen running through an area pony farm and the chase was on.

The animal entered a pony lane which had barbed wire on both sides of it. According to Barron, the other end of the lane was blocked off and the bull was trapped. Workers from the slaughter house arrived and the situation was under control.

"This was just one of the things that police officers everywhere experience once in a while," said the sergeant, "but I sure hope it doesn't happen again for a long while."

Jordanian Observing Area Job Corps Camp

ISSAM AREEDA

A 28-year-old Cultural and Information officer from Jordan, Issam Areeda, has arrived in the Warren area and will serve as a visitor worker at Camp Blue Jay Job Corps for five weeks.

Issam Areeda is associated with the Jordan Youth and Sports Organization but comes to this country as a participant in the Council of International Living program.

The council's goal is to know the United States and its people, their thinking and feelings. There are 156 participants from 48 countries, two of them from Jordan, one assigned to Chicago and Issam, in Cleveland, Ohio.

During six weeks in Cleveland, Areeda said he visited many places in the city, its job corps center, youth organizations and Boy Scouts of America. He also traveled to Washington, D.C., spending 10 days at its job corps center. Due to intense heat, Areeda stated, he was unable to remain in Washington any longer.

In discussing his stay at Blue Jay, the Jordanian said he was very interested to observe the work there and added the U.S. Department of Agriculture was fortunate in having a fine director like Murray Hartshorn and an excellent staff.

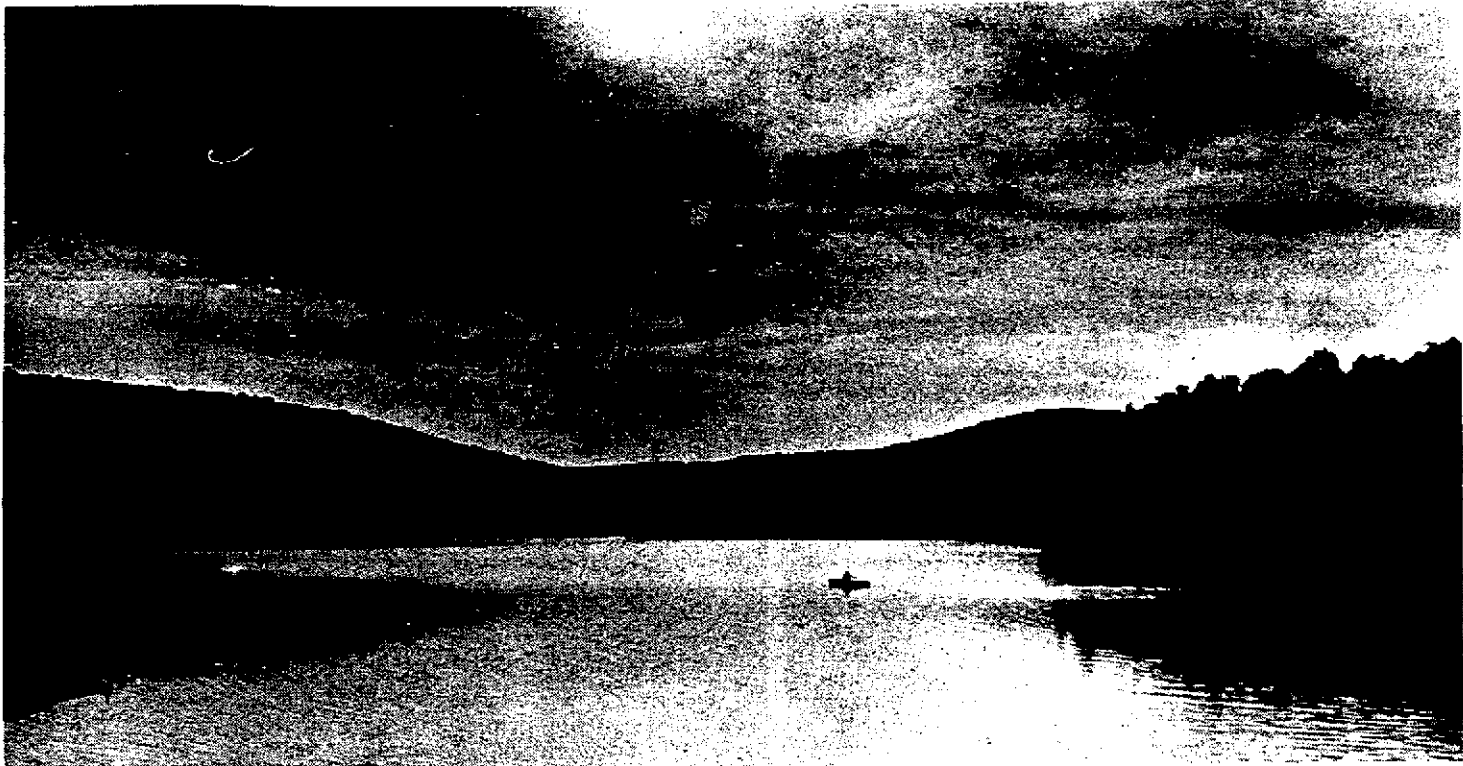

The Jordan organization with which Areeda is affiliated, is new and young being established October 16, 1966. The Sports

City, named "Al Hussein" controls about 25 youth centers and Boy and Girl Scout movements. Scharaf Fawaz, Secretary General of the organization, has said the Sports City (not for sports only) is also for creation and education, not just for youth but for all of the people of Jordan. The goal of the youth centers is to teach youth to be productive citizens.

Areeda graduated from Teacher's College in 1958 and taught four years before becoming an announcer for a broadcasting service. He then turned to journalism and worked for the Jordan Agency for the News. He is also head of the personnel bureau of the Ministry of Information and private secretary to the Prince, who serves as director of the youth organization.

The Jordanian's work day at home is a long one, in order to fulfill his many duties. He starts at 8 a.m. and continues until 2 a.m. Until coming to the United States, Areeda had spoken not a word of English since 1958, but the lapse in no way impaired his ability to clearly explain his past and his purpose.

The excavation of Pompeii, which disappeared under the ashes of Mount Vesuvius in 79 A.D., has continued longer than that of any other city in the world.

Commission Investigating Violence Makes Sweeping Recommendations

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A special task force that investigated spring violence in Pittsburgh's Negro neighborhoods recommended Friday a beefed-up police force, more respect for law and order, and better homes and jobs for people in the ghettos.

"Charges and counter-charges will not redress the failings of the past or overcome the massive tasks ahead," the group said. "Instead, continued irresponsible actions by a few — and apathy or retaliation by many — will further divide the races and destroy the city and its neighboring suburbs."

The task force handed down a long list of recommendations. Some of its key suggestions were:

— A substantial increase in appropriations to increase the size of the police force, particularly beat patrolmen, and beef up other police services and train additional mobile tactical units.

— "A public reaffirmation that lawlessness, inciting to riot, disorder and disruption of orderly processes for change will not be tolerated."

— Support and pressure for federal and state gun control laws.

— At least 1,500 new dwellings per year for low-income and moderate income families "until a major impact has been made on the 40,000 substandard dwellings within the city."

— The employment of 2,200 hard-core unemployed by private business — "a move now being expedited by the National Alliance of Businessmen and the Allegheny Conference on Community Development."

Burrell Cohen, the mayor's executive secretary and chairman of the seven-man task force, said the report means a "redirection and rechanneling of some of the money and the altering of priorities."

He told a news conference that "The vast majority of the citizens in this city, both black and white, want progress. But they don't want progress at the expense of violence."

Mayor Joseph M. Barr appointed the task force last April after a wave of firebombings, window smashings and looting erupted in the city following the assassination of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

The trouble began in the Hill District and spread to the Homewood-Brushston area and Manchester section of the North Side. National Guardsmen and state troopers were brought into the city before order was restored.

The task force said one woman died after being burned by a firebomb, 33 firemen and 12 policemen were injured, 505 fires were reported, and 925 individuals were arrested. The loss from fires alone was estimated at $620,000, but the task force said the real loss — including stolen merchandise and curtailed business — ran into the millions of dollars.

German Cleaning Woman At Daughter's Bedside

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Anna Havlicek, a cleaning woman at a Munich high school, stepped off a plane from Germany Friday, bought a dozen carnations, then rushed to the bedside of her critically ill daughter.

"I knew she would come," said the daughter, Anna Smith, 25.

Mrs. Havlicek arrived early at the nearby Augusta, Ga., airport. She delayed her bedside visit until a florist shop opened, then headed for the U.S. Army hospital with the flowers — an old German custom, she said.

The money for the trip was raised by pupils at the school where she works and by a Munich newspaper, Abendzeitung.

Spec. 5 John Smith of near Latta, S.C., said he and Anna were married last January. He said Anna, "because she wanted to be fair," told him before the ceremony that she had intestinal cancer.

"That didn't make any difference," he said in an interview.

"I was in love with her," Mrs. Smith has three children by a previous marriage, Linda 7, Bonnie 5, and Barbara 4. Smith, a mechanic, said he would like to keep them. Mrs. Havlicek said she would like to take care of the children and Smith says "that would be fine if I could get assigned to Germany."

Prior to Anna's hospitalization May 25, Smith was ordered to Germany. Doctors said it would be good for Anna because she wanted to see her family.

But the orders were canceled when it was determined that Anna probably would not recover.

Mrs. Havlicek was met by a niece, Mrs. Marshall J. Burris who married a former Army infantryman in Straubing, Germany in 1964 and who now lives in Canton, N.C.

County Gets $45,886 In Tax Refunds

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG — Payment of $45,886.06 has been approved for Warren County by the State Department of Revenue as the county's share of an $8.9 million refund to counties throughout the state from liquid fuels tax collections for the six-month period ending June 1. A check in this amount has been forwarded to Warren County by State Treasurer Thomas Z. Minehart.

The department said the money must be spent by the county commissioners within the corporate limits of the county for construction, improvement and maintenance of county roads and bridges. The funds are allocated to townships and boroughs within the county at the discretion of the commissioners — not the Department of Revenue.

In December the county received $52,591.06 in liquid fuels tax refunds covering the second half of 1967. As a point of comparison with the $45,886.06 six-month payment that has just been approved and forwarded, Warren County for the comparable first period of 1967 received $41,570.65, while for the same period in 1966 the refund amounted to $40,559.68.

The statewide allocation of $8,949,478.71 is $1,561,270.49 less than the preceding six-month period and $641,247.92 above the amount received during the corresponding period a year ago.

At any given moment in the world there are 2,200 thunderstorms, which can be heard at a range of more than 18 miles.

Officials Tour Proposed Hemlock Park Location

The Warren County Commissioners, with representatives from the U.S. Forest Service, a member of the State Planning Board, Bill Rusin, planning director and the news media, traveled into Elk township Friday afternoon to get a first-hand look at the proposed Hemlock Park site.

It was not difficult to envision a future rustic picnic site nestled among a fine growth of varied trees. And it appeared it might be possible to envision some matching funds to aid in developing the area given the county by Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart of Akeley.

Craig Covey, of the state planning board, Department of Community Affairs, Erie, joined the site tour under Project 500.

Authority Asks Condemnation Of Properties

The Warren County Redevelopment Authority filed for a Declaration of Taking asking the court to pave the way for condemnation of properties involved in the Liberty street urban renewal project.

Named in the petition were Liberty Realty Corp., Montgomery Ward Co., Norman E., Herbert M. and Nancy R. Weiss, James and Beatrice Mazzu, Cowdick's Drug Store, Percy N. Gilson (Lester Shoe Store).

Portions of most of the areas will be part of the proposed parking complex, the condemnation legal under the Urban Development Law.

The Department of Community Affairs houses regional recreational and open space specialists in each of five regional offices. It is expected one such specialist will visit the Hemlock Park site in the near future.

Under Project 500 grants are also available for the acquisition of additional urban park and open space lands and for the preparation of required recreation studies and site development plans.

It is expected an initial survey will get under way today (Saturday) of the section of the five acres to be converted into a parking area.

Job Corpsmen from Camp Blue Jay to start clearing out a few trees to make way for picnic areas and eliminate some moisture within the growth. Most of the stand, however will be preserved.

Fun can be many things. To these boys fun is riding a Roller coaster. To several dozens of other lads, all Times-Mirror and Observer carrier boys, fun was the facilities at Midway Park last Tuesday when two car loads of these young men took part in the annual carrier boy's picnic sponsored by the newspaper. The day was rainy and bleak, but not even the weather -- regardless of how bad it may seem -- can interfere with boys having fun. After all that's the object of a picnic -- to have fun.

South African Girls Are Anti-Men Incorporated

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—When it comes to romance, South African men just don't make the grade.

"They're little more than barbarians," according to a pretty 21-year-old Johannesburg secretary.

Miss Sandi Philip heads a group of frustrated white girls who call themselves Anti-Men Incorporated. Angered at what they term the loveless attitude taken by South African males, they plan teaching the menfolk a lesson in gentlemanly conduct and the finer points of love making.

"The days of playing the tough he-man type are over," said Sandi. "We don't want rough diamond, rugby-playing types. We plan teaching them how to become gentlemen and proper lovers on a par with continental males."

The girls with ages ranging between 18 and 30 plan a nationwide campaign aimed at unattached men. Shortly they will receive a pamphlet entitled "What every man must know."

"Let's face it," said Sandi, "the time is ripe for a revolution against unromantic South African males."

At its first meeting AMI passed a host of resolutions aimed at deflating the manly image of South African menfolk:

They are the worst lovers in the world.

They brag about female conquests but act like frightened lambs when alone with a woman.

Manners are atrocious and their dress and grooming impossible.

Candlelight and wine is wasted on them. They act like schoolboys when ordering a meal and dance like rugby players trying for a touch-down.

Con conversationally their repartee is confined to fast cars and sport. They feel it unmanly to whisper sweet nothings into their companion's ear.

Summing up the committee's findings on their unromantic menfolk, the women concluded that their dates acted like "inadequate, uncertain schoolboys" when it came to romance.

Miss Philip confidently expects thousands of girls to join her "we want romantic men" club.

"We refuse to accept their barbaric behavior and anti-woman attitudes. We like men to be men," she said. "But they must learn the elementary arts of romance. We women are gentle creatures craving attention, emotional security and the feeling of wanting to be loved."

"We are tired of rugby-playing barbarians. Unfortunately most South African women marry these tough he-man types," she said.

There were also two visitors, Sue Reynolds and Miss Wilson, assistant home economist. After the guests had been introduced, the girls worked on their dresses, skirts, and TV slippers. At the end of the meeting, refreshments of cupcakes, pastries, and punch were served.

Hale-Ekstrom Vows Exchanged June 22

Miss Mary Kathryn Hale became the bride of Mr. Arthur Roy Ekstrom on Saturday, June 22, in a 3:30 p.m. ceremony at the Zion Lutheran Church of Frewsburg, N.Y. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis C. Hale, Main street, Frewsburg. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ekstrom.

Two hundred guests attended the double ring candlelight ceremony, performed by the Rev. Bertil A. Erling, pastor. Michele Allison, cousin of the bride, was the organist. Soloist was Gary Olson.

The altar was adorned with baskets of pompons and gladioli and with seven branched candelabra, ornamented by ribbon, greenery, and pompons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Sata-peau, with a scooped neckline. The elbow length sleeves were edged with flowered Venetian lace, as were the empire bodice and the A-line skirt. The chapel length train banded with matching lace fell from a kitten bow at the waist; the tiered bouffant veil of elbow length silk illusion flowed from a princess crown of pearl and crystal. She carried a cascade of daisies and baby's breath.

The bride and groom received nuptial communion. Their wedding guests participated in the ceremony by singing "O Perfect Love" and a post-communion hymn.

Miss Patricia Hale, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, in a sky-blue A-line gown. She carried a bouquet of blue, white, and yellow daisies, and wore a headpiece of the same flowers on an ivy crown.

The bridesmaids, gowned identically to the honor attendant, were Miss Johnana M. Allison, cousin of the bride; Miss Christina Nicolay, of Ridge, Long Island; and Miss Rose Mary Ekstrom, sister of the groom. All carried bouquets of blue and white daisies.

Mistress Jacqueline Beth Ekstrom, niece of the groom, was flower girl, and was attired like the bridesmaids. Master Jerry K. Ekstrom, the groom's nephew, served as ringbearer.

Mr. John Ekstrom was his brother's best man. Ushers were George Ekstrom, Emerson Ekstrom, and Leonard Ekstrom, brothers of the groom; and John Howard and Thomas Allison, cousins of the bride. John A. Hale and James E. Hale, twin brothers of the bride, acted as junior ushers.

The bride's mother was attired in a beige dress of re-embroidered Alencon lace with matching beige accessories and a corsage of coral roses. Mrs.

Edward Hale, grandmother of the bride, was presented with a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held at the American Legion in Frewsburg for two hundred guests. Two hundred flowers and favors, of blue and avocado green, covered the tables. The Masters and Mistresses of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allison and Mr. and Mrs. Osmond Howard, uncles and aunts of the bride.

Aides were Miss Shirley Samuelson, Miss Judith Dugan, Miss Pamela Hale, Miss Jean Bower, Miss Sheryle Kennedy, and Miss Wendy Hale. Miss Victoria Classon and Miss Shelley Hale were in charge of the guest book.

The bride selected a yellow linen dress trimmed with daisies, plus a daisy corsage and white accessories for traveling to Cape Cod. After July 4, they will be residing at 43

Institute street, Frewsburg.

The new Mrs. Ekstrom is a graduate of Frewsburg Central School and is presently a senior at Fredonia State University, where she is majoring in Secondary Education with a specialization in English. Her husband is also a graduate of Frewsburg Central School. He spent two years in the U.S. Army and is now employed at Vac Air Alloys, Frewsburg.

Luncheons were given by Mrs. Osmond Howard and Mrs. Harold Allison, and by Miss Johnana Allison. Mrs. Neil North gave a bridal shower. The rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the groom's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Babyak.

Out-of-town guests attended from Orange, N.J.; Hammondsport, Geneseo, Gainesville, and Newfane, N.Y.; and from Kane and Greensburg, Penna.

Cut Your Ironing Problems Down

Ironing problems can be cut down to size with spray sizing, a relatively new home laundry aid designed to replace starch and ease the work of ironing.

Sizing restores body and life to fabric without producing excess stiffness. Spray it on dry fabric as you iron. Sizing may also be used on fabrics which require dampening.

Simplify your ironing by following these Magic spray sizing tips.

—Size your synthetics. Unlike starch, sizing can be used on all washable fabrics. Also try it for touch-up ironing on "permanent press."

—Size napkins. Stack napkins and handkerchiefs. Spray the sizing on top napkin and iron. Do the same for the second and third. By the time you reach the bottom, the remaining napkins practically will have "ironed themselves."

—Size your sneakers. Tennis shoes which have been machine washed and have lost their body can be sized. Let shoes dry. Then spray on sizing, completing soaking the fabric. Stuff the insides with tissue to permit shoes to regain original body and shape as they dry.

—Size your curtains. Hang dacton curtains while damp. Then spray with sizing. Wrinkles will hang out. Since sizing is practically clear, you probably won't have to do much window cleaning afterward.

—Size dark cottons. Sizing does not tend to flake or scorch, so you won't have the annoying white flecks that usually appear when dark fabrics are starched and ironed.

—Size your ironing board cover. To help speed ironing, and to keep your cover clean longer, spray with sizing.

—Size up your trip. Pack a can of sizing in your suitcase right along with your travel iron. When you arrive, spray and iron travel-wrinkled clothing.

Size your ties. Ties which have been cleaned many times may be sprayed with sizing and pressed before sewing in place.

With these magic tips, you can ease your ironing task, and you'll save time too.

No-Bar Riding Club Enjoys Tureen Dinner

A tureen dinner meeting was enjoyed last evening by members of the No-Bar Riding Club at the Columbus Community Building. Table decorations were spring and summer flowers.

Charles Reed, program chairman, and his wife donated a large decorated cake in observance of the initiation of new members. On the cake was writ-

Dora E. Rhoades Married To Emery Eugene Lauffenburger

On June 15, 1968 at 1:30 p.m. Miss Dora Elaine Rhoades was united in marriage with Emery Eugene Lauffenburger in St. John's Lutheran Church, Warren. The Rev. James McCormick performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families of the couple. Vases of gladioli decorated the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rhoades, 308 Dutch Hill Road, Warren. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Lauffenburger of 734 Cobham Park Road, Warren.

Escorted by her father, the bride chose a floor-length white gown of delicate lace and peau de sole styled taffeta. Lace adorned the empire style bodice, long pointed sleeves and scalloped band on the skirt. The A-line skirt, topped with bows in the back and front, had a detachable lace overskirt trimmed with a scalloped border. The two-tier elbow length bouffant veil of nylon tulle fell from a forward crown of petals, lace and simulated pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of daisies with a white rose corsage in the center.

Maid of honor was Miss Alberta Moore, Marlenville, Pa. Her floor-length gown was of yellow nylon and lace over taffeta. Miss Moore's veil had three centered flowers with simulated pearls.

Mr. Ward Lauffenburger, Jr., brother of the groom, served ten "Welcome to New Members."

Mr. Reed presided at the initiation of 28 new members from Sherman, Youngsville, Corry, Columbus, Clymer and Sugar Grove.

Albert Fox, president, was in charge of the business meeting.

A work bee is slated for Sunday at the clubgrounds and an all-game show is slated for July 13th.

The club has donated the use of its clubhouse and grounds to members of the 4-H groups who are interested in caring for and training horses and ponies.

as best man. Mr. John Lauffenburger was usher for his brother.

The mother of the bride wore a gray and white suit with white accessories. The groom's mother chose a 3 piece blue suit with white accessories. Each was presented a white rosebud corsage.

The bride's grandmother was unable to attend, but was remembered with a rosebud corsage. Mrs. Gertrude Stites, grandmother of the groom, was presented a rosebud corsage.

A reception was held for 75 guests in the church parlors. The bride's table had a centerpiece of yellow and white daisies. The 3 tier wedding cake was baked by Mrs. Howard Van Ord, cousin of the bride.

Assisting were the Misses Chrissie, Roxanne and Laura Rhoades, sisters of the bride; Miss Beth Lauffenburger, sister of the groom; Jeanne Manchester; Peggy Long; Debbie Richards.

For a honeymoon trip to Miami Beach, Fla., Mrs. Lauffenburger chose a coat and dress ensemble of blue and white.

The bride and groom are 1966 graduates of Warren Area High School. A member of the U.S. Army, Mr. Lauffenburger has just returned from a year's duty in Vietnam. He will leave for Germany on July 6, 1968, and Mrs. Lauffenburger will join him there in August.

Prenuptial affairs were given by Miss Alberta Moore, Mrs. Dorothy Lauffenburger, Mrs. Sandra Constable, Mrs. Roberta Van Ord, Mrs. Sherry Dexter and Mrs. Judy Rhoades.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at the Jackson Heights restaurant. The Driftwood, Jamestown, N. Y., was the scene of the bridesmaid's luncheon.

Guests attended from Niagara Falls, Lakewood and Jamestown, N. Y., and Erie, Bradford, Aliquippa, Hallstead, Russell, Kane, Clarendon and Warren, Pa.

Voting machines were first used in Rhode Island in the 1936 elections.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Recently I purchased a new bedroom suite and I needed something to protect my dresser top from my cosmetic bottles and jars.

I shopped for a tray, but found them quite expensive.

Well, this morning I hit upon the idea of using an old, inexpensive picture frame with a gold filigree rim. I just removed the felt-covered back, taped it to the outside of the back, pulled the prop off and laid the frame flat on my dresser, face up.

I plan to put small favorite pictures and beauty (or Heloise) hints under the glass, so that it also serves as a reminder.

It cost me nothing and is a fine addition to my dresser.

Kathy Walker

Now that's what I call using your noggin! Think of the dresser tops it will save. Many teenage girls will love you for this hint.

I sure do.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I have an old round, unframed beveled mirror that is a disgrace, but my husband is sentimental about it because it belonged to his mother.

I saw a hint in your column suggesting cutting out ivy leaves from adhesive-backed plastic and arranging them around the edge.

I bought extra-wide bias tape, measured around the mirror and cut the bias tape three inches smaller (this would vary according to size of mirror). Sewed the ends together and stretched it around the edge of the mirror.

It looks 100% better.

I keep hoping the mirror will fall off the wall—but I guess it never will!

Irma

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

I hear there is a rumor going around about you. "Heloise sends her oven out to be cleaned!" True or false?

Mary Ann

I only wish I could!

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Tweezers are my favorite tool at the sewing machine. Mine are the slim, pointed kind.

They are perfect for removing basting, pulling the bobbin thread through the fabric, or for turning up edges and going around corners neatly on the machine, because they will slip up close to the presser foot and hold the fabric more firmly than fingers can.

They're also great for removing pins (used for pin basting) that are approaching the needle and which are often wedged tightly under the front edge of the presser foot.

And you can't beat a pair of tweezers for turning collars and belts to get a nice point without poking a hole in the fabric.

"Let's talk
dry cleaning"

By HOWARD JARVIS

The 4th of July recalls many things ... most important of all, the birth of our nation through the war of independence. It is a day on which we celebrate our freedom, remembering that it was not won easily ... and it still demands our constant united effort to preserve it.

For many of us, the 4th also recalls other memories, of picnics, brass bands, patriotic speeches, and, of course, fireworks. Nowadays the use of fireworks is more controlled than it was years ago, and there are fewer accidents. But some kinds of firecrackers are still dangerous things in inexperienced hands.

And speaking of potentially dangerous explosives brings up another subject we've been meaning to mention, the matter of inflammable home cleaning fluids. Most of those now sold are gasoline or cleaners' naphtha. A hint has the explosive power of a pound of dynamite. The fumes alone are dangerous, and even the friction of rubbing a garment can cause a static spark that will make an inflammable fluid explode.

So just as you're careful about your children playing with fireworks, be careful with cleaning fluids. Let your dry cleaner clean your clothes ... safely!

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm in love for the very first time. Tim is 35, I am 29. Neither of us has ever been married. It's as if we've been waiting for one another all these years.

Problem: When I was 18 I became involved with a group of homosexuals. Many were older than I. Some were highly respected professional people—creative and interesting. I ran with this crowd for two years but maintained my other friendships also. After awhile I decided I didn't want to live in the shadows. I decided to give up my homosexual friends and go completely straight.

I couldn't afford psychiatric help so I went to my minister. He gave me the strength and courage I needed to break away from my homo friends. It was not easy but I was determined to win the battle and I did.

Question: Should I tell Tim? I feel he would still love me and it would not jeopardize our wedding plans. What do you say?
—LUCKY AND THANKFUL

DEAR LUCKY: Tell him. But don't be surprised if he already knows. Such information has a way of getting around.

I strongly recommend that you ask your physician for reading material on homosexuality. You (and thousands of others who have written to me) do not know the difference between homosexuality and bi-sexuality. There's an enormous amount of ignorance on this subject.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago our daughter (age 20) and her steady boyfriend, who is a very nice chap and comes from a fine family, told us as follows: "We are sorry it had to happen like this but there's a baby on the way and we want to get married right away."

If I told you we weren't shocked and disappointed I would be lying. But we decided to hold our heads high and do the best we could. Our daughter and the boy asked for a church wedding, white gown and all, but wanted only the immediate family present. We agreed.

Now, several of our friends have mentioned they have heard rumors that our daughter is pregnant. I have been evasive but realize I must say something soon because the bride will be showing before long.

Any suggestions as to how to explain the early arrival of our first grandchild?—T.N.T.

DEAR T.: No bride who is "showing" should wear a white bridal gown and, so far as I know, they are not making bridal gowns in maternity styles—yet. The grandchild won't be early. The kids got married late. Make no apologies. Your REAL friends will not bring up the subject. As for the others, tell them babies always come when they are ready—and some are ready sooner than others.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 26 years old—not beautiful, but I've been told I am interesting looking. My husband was no good so we decided to live apart. I won't go into detail but I could write a book about that skunk. At present I'm living with my mother who takes care of my two children while I work. I am in no hurry to get a divorce and neither is my husband.

My problem is that I am trying to meet some nice men and having no luck. Almost every evening I go to a little bar where there is dancing. Everything goes fine until the guy notices my wedding ring. When I say I am separated they don't believe me. Do you think I should leave my ring at home? Please advise. —HILDEGARDE

DEAR HILDE: Not only should you leave your ring at home but you should stay at home with your ring. "Separated" is still married.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism—Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamp, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Mildred Wright led devotions. Officers' reports were given, and the members voted to give $20.00 to the church building fund. Readings were given by Mrs. Myrle Cady, Mrs. Bessie Saunders, Mrs. Walter Storms, Mrs. Jesse Thompson, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. F. A. Schoonover, Mrs. Chester Mason and Miss Broughton.

The Women's Society of Christian Service met at the Methodist Mission House in Chautauqua, with Mrs. Allene Briggs, Mrs. Jesse Thompson and Miss Flossie Broughton serving as hostesses. A tureen dinner was served at noon, followed by the business meeting and program. Mrs. Gerald Miller, vice-president, conducted the meeting; Mrs. Clifford Storms led the opening prayer. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved, and several communications were read. Miss Broughton and Mrs. Donald Gruber were appointed to serve on the committee in charge of flowers for the church. Mrs. Louise Gourley and Miss Doris Bloomster are representing the organization on the committee for the annual union meeting to be held in July.

Mrs. Howard Curtis reviewed the book, "Vietnam Doctor" by Dr. James Turpin, Jr.

Hospital Execs

Are Mostly Men

NEW YORK (AP) — Women make up most of the work force in hospitals, but the executive leaders are largely men. Only one out of five administrators is a woman.

Furthermore, these women administrators tend to be paid less, to hold smaller positions and to be older than their male peers.

That's what Dr. Miriam Terry Dolson writes in a recent issue of "The Modern Hospital." Dr. Dolson's findings are suggested by a study of hospital administrators she and associates at Cornell University conducted in 1965.

She found that the women in top hospital administrative jobs are concentrated in certain areas: New York, Pennsylvania, California, Minnesota, Illinois, Ohio, Texas.

As for age: women administrators are not only older than men in the same jobs, but they're older than the average woman worker. Fifty per cent were over 50 years of age compared with 35 per cent of the men.

In 1965, Dr. Dolson says, women 45 and over made up 39 per cent of all women in the labor force, contrasting with 67 per cent of women hospital administrators in that age bracket.

She found that most of the women administrators operate relatively smaller hospitals than do the men, and markedly few are married.

The Cornell Study shows that 85 per cent of the women hospital executives receive less than $15,000 a year. Dr. Dolson points out, though, that salaries are lower in smaller institutions and that 41 per cent of women administrators are in church-controlled hospitals. In some of the latter hospitals salaries must be returned to the religious community and, if a salary is reported, it may be a minimum amount.

Rain Fails to Stop Carrier Boys Good Time

ALL ABOARD

Last Tuesday was a bad day -- rainy -- gloomy -- but the foul weather didn't hamper the fun of some 60 newspaper carrier boys who spent the day at Midway Park. Spirits were high as the TM&O carriers embarked on their annual picnic, sponsored by the company, and throughout the day nothing, not even the constant drizzle spoiled the high spirited fun.

The boys left Warren at 1 p.m. on two chartered buses. By the time they arrived at their destination the rains had begun. The management at Midway Park cooperated however and despite the rain all of the park's facilities were at the disposal of the boys.

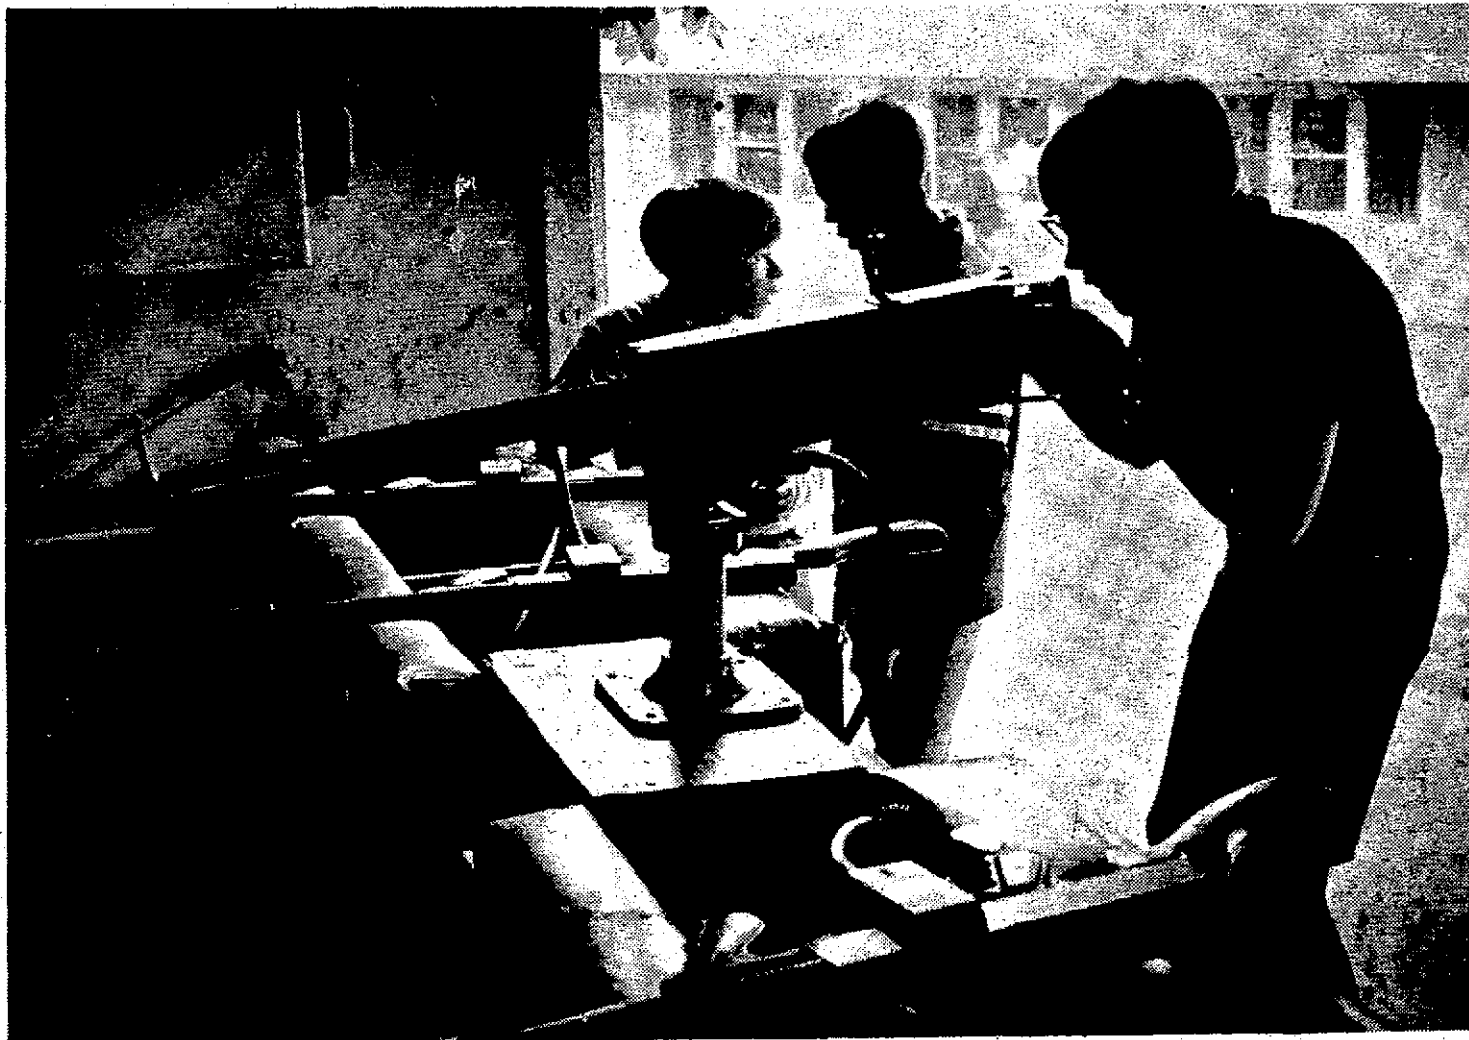

Much of the activity was confined to the Penny Arcade, and the sheltered building which houses the amusing Dodge-em-cars. Many of the boys, however, braved the dampness, to enjoy other rides including the Rollercoaster, Tilt-a-Whirl and Merry-go-round.

Some of the carriers, with complete disregard for the weather, played a couple rounds of miniature golf, while others were content to spend the afternoon roller skating.

All who attended ate their fill of hotdogs, hamburgers, cotton candy, pop and popcorn and other delightful treats that go hand in hand with amusement parks and picnics.

It was the boys' day. It was the company's way of expressing its appreciation for a year of hard work, and service to the Times Mirror and Observer and our customers.

Singing Sergeants To Perform

Two outstanding programs will be open to the public next week at Chautauqua Institution. On Monday, July 1, the United States Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants Chorus will offer an exciting program in the Amphitheater at 8:30 p.m. The Air Force Band, chorus and soloists, under the direction of Lt. Col. Arnold D. Gabriel, will offer a versatile program which will include a Sousa march and other marches, songs by Gershwin, selection by Holst and Tchaikovsky and an aria from "La Boheme" by Puccini.

Organized in 1942 as a counterpart to the US Army, Navy and Marine Bands, the Air Force Band quickly achieved a unique position in musical circles. Known as the "Band of Friendship" it became a goodwill ambassador for the U.S. making ten international tours and visiting a total of 47 countries on five continents.

On Thursday, July 4th, the Independence Day Ceremonies at 8:30 p.m. will give Chautauqua County and surrounding area residents an opportunity to hear an address by the Honorable Raymond P. Shafer, Governor of Pennsylvania. The Westfield Academy and Central School Band conducted by William Boes, will provide the music. There will be no gate fee for either evening.

FUR FOR MEN
JOHANNESBURG (AP)—South African furrier Leslie Derber plans to market fur coats "for masculine men."

"Selling the first 10 might be a bit of a battle," Derber said. "We have to overcome the taboo on men wearing fur, but after that it will snowball."

KNOWS THE SCORE
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—When Mrs. John Hocky returned from the race track, a friend asked if she had enjoyed herself.

"I had lots of fun," said Mrs. Hocky. "I played all eight games."

Your Horoscope By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 29, 1968

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)--Fine rewards promised for those who make the best use of their skills and emphasize cooperation with all. Don't make drastic changes in projects which are running smoothly just for the sake of change, but don't hesitate if alterations will prove beneficial.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)--Planetary influences should help you to advance your interests, but do not overtax yourself. If you can, devote some time to one of the many artistic hobbies in which the Taurean delights. It will prove highly stimulating.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)--Smart thinking and adroit action -- innate with you -- will be the order of the day. You can do a brilliant job in most areas through intelligent, well-coordinated management.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)--This should be a smooth-running day if you do not look for difficulty. Put forth your best efforts, express your fine ideas -- AND have confidence in yourself.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)--You will find the "little" things rewarding now. Don't look for the spectacular. Be satisfied with even small gains.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)--If someone close to you has erred, try to help him rectify his error -- but discreetly. Don't make him feel that he is in a "spot," or give him a feeling of insecurity. Be your understanding self.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)--If you are at the halfway mark in any project, do not lose the incentive that motivated you in the first place, or you could eventually lose out. Keep going! Rewards are in the offing.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)--A day of mixed influences. You can hold your own through thoughtful management, with a dash of imagination. Do not become annoyed if some change in your program is necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)--If a proposed plan or project is well-advised and suited to your talents and training, try it, even though it is "unusual." Remember that many of your past successes resulted from undertakings which you considered unusual at first.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)--Very little can go wrong when you have loyal backers to help you in overcoming obstacles. And this you have now! An imaginative "touch" could brighten routine matters.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)--Under day's mildly favorable Uranus influences, you can win new laurels by capitalizing on your fine imagination and by pooling ideas with those who share your enthusiasms.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)--Be sure that your premises are correct and that your efforts are not wasted on worthless undertakings. But do recognize a good thing when you see it.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great versatility, conservatism, a charming and lovable personality and limitless compassion for others. You could become highly successful in the medical field; in science generally, as an educator or historian, or in the legal profession. To reach the heights to which you CAN attain, however, you will have to continually bolster self-confidence and curb tendencies toward hypersensitivity. Birthdate of: Peter Paul Rubens, Flemish painter; G. W. Goethals, builder of Panama Canal.

How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

WHY BREATHING IS NOISY

Mrs. B. writes: Why is a man's breathing noisy even though he is not exerting himself? This happens when he is sitting in a chair or lying in bed.

REPLY
Some do this when they relax, especially men who are exhausted or overweight, but otherwise healthy. Others with this symptom have heart or lung disease.

WHY NOSES ARE BENT

O. A. writes: What causes deviated septum in the nose?

REPLY
Many individuals are born with the defect. Others acquire it through injury, such as a blow to the nose or falling on the face.

PSORIASIS ON SCALP

A reader writes: Can psoriasis affect the scalp and no other part of the body?

REPLY
Yes, and occasionally this is the only area of the body that is bothered.

SYNONYMS FOR STERILITY

A reader writes: What is the medical term for sterility?

REPLY
Sterility, unless you prefer infertility or barrenness.

WHY NO ANSWER?

S. A. G. writes: Why is it that whenever I request a leaflet, one is not sent out promptly? It can't be my handwriting, because my request is typed on a card. Perhaps you might be able to help me, since the last two requests have been ignored.

REPLY

All letters accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope are answered. Some of our readers fail to do this and are disappointed when they do not receive a reply.

SECOND-DEGREE BURN

C. F. writes: What is meant by a second-degree burn?

REPLY

Destruction of the outer layers of the skin, with blister formation. The skin usually regenerates because its complete thickness is not destroyed.

WANTS FATTER LEGS

M. L. writes: Would you please give me some advice on how I can make my legs a little fatter? I've had this little problem for a long time.

REPLY

Gain weight or join a dancing class.

Dream of Two Local Girls Nears Reality

By DAVE KNIGHT

A dream envisioned four years ago by two local girls, Judy Hohman and Diane Barone, is gradually emerging a reality.

The two girls, both born and raised in the Warren area, are the co-owners of Mortgage Hill, a stable and riding academy located on Daugherty Run rd., about five miles north of Warren.

Open officially May 1 of this year, Mortgage Hill boasts a stable of 17 horses and ponies, which can be rented by the hour for scenic trail rides. Mortgage Hill can accommodate the public with individually sponsored hayrides, and there are facilities for boarding horses.

For the more serious horseman, Judy and Diane offer instruction in western and English (forward seat) riding. Riding lessons are offered by the hour; half hour; and in class groups at a nominal fee. Instruction is offered to any interested person six years of age or older, with a special invitation and consideration for the adult student.

Diane and Judy, both professionals with over 10 years experience, train and show horses, one of the unique services offered at Mortgage Hill.

Everything about Mortgage Hill, presently, and in the expansion planned for the future reflects experience and professionalism.

Judy, with 10 years experience, has been riding since she was five years of age. Much of her experience, though not all of it, has been in the show ring, where she has worked with Quarter Horses, Morgans, Arabians and Hunters.

Judy's training experience includes work with Western Pleasure Horses, Quarter Horses, Hunters and thoroughbred race horses. She has also taught riding for several years, with much of her teaching experience being acquired at Meadowdale Stallion Station, Durant, Ill. where she taught English Forward Seat (Hunters and Jumpers), and western.

A proficient equestrienne, Diane, like Judy, also has over ten years experience in showing and training horses and instructing.

Diane's credits include employment at the "Old Dominion Hunt Club," Middlesburg, Va. where she had complete charge of the Hunter Stable. In Middlesburg, she also worked with, training and showing, Arabian Horses.

Following a period of employment at the Old Dominion Hunt Club, Diane took employment with the Middleburg, Va. training center, where she continued to pursue her work with thoroughbred race horses. While at the training center she galloped race horses and broke yearlings.

Diane, like Judy, was employed for a time at Meadowdale Stallion Station training and breaking thoroughbred race horses.

Diane's experience however has not been confined to the training of horses. She also has many years of teaching experience, which includes private employment for Michigan Senator Phillip Hart, Warrenton, Va. teaching his children to ride. While with the senator, she had complete charge of the stable. She belonged to and hunted with the Warrenton Hunt Club.

Diane later moved to Westport, Conn., where she worked for the Fiddle Horse Farm, and again she was in complete charge of the stable. While in Westport she taught English riding (Forward Seat), and gave instruction in showing, hunting, and jumping horses. She later took charge of 50 school horses becoming a professional groom for show horses. She was also affiliated with the Oxridge Hunt club while in Westport.

This experience combined with that of Judy's should, without saying, give Mortgage Hill a head start toward a rosy future.

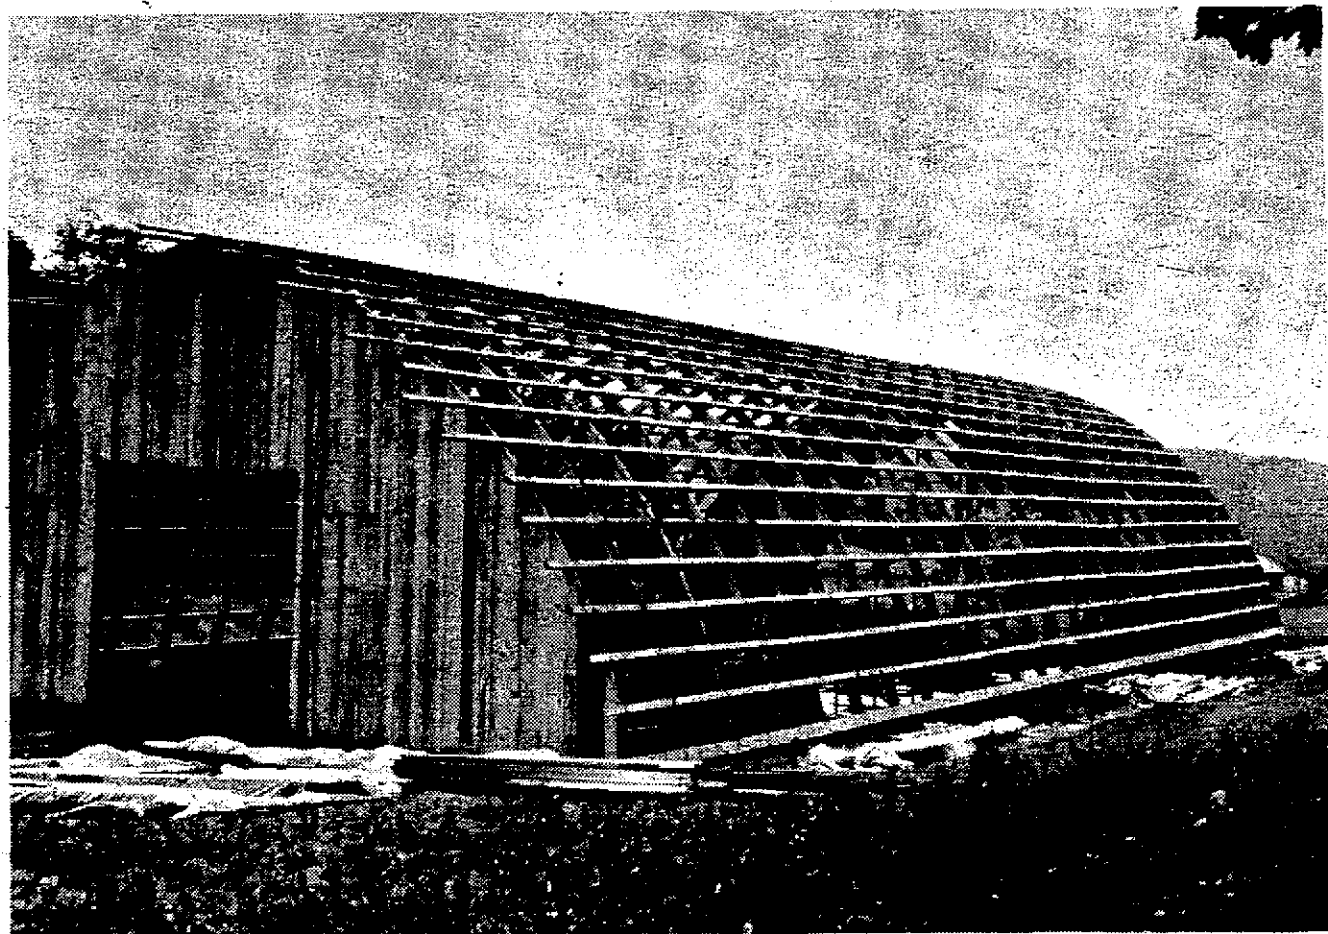

As for the future Diane and Judy say there are many things yet to be done to make their dream a complete reality. The girls are presently constructing jumps and a jump ring. An indoor ring is also under construction. There are presently three outdoor rings ranging in size from 50 by 60 feet to 100 by 150 feet. Other plans include the construction of another stable, with at least 20 stalls, a wash room and a tack room.

How soon their dream will become a complete reality will depend on the girls themselves, but if hard work and determination is any indication the completion of their dream will not be long in coming.

TROPHIES PROVE ABILITY

Both Judy and Diane have been riding since they were very young, and both in the past 10 years have proved themselves worthy of being professionals. Judy, left, displays a few of the trophies she has won since she first started riding at the age of five. Diane, right, has a similar display of awards and trophies.

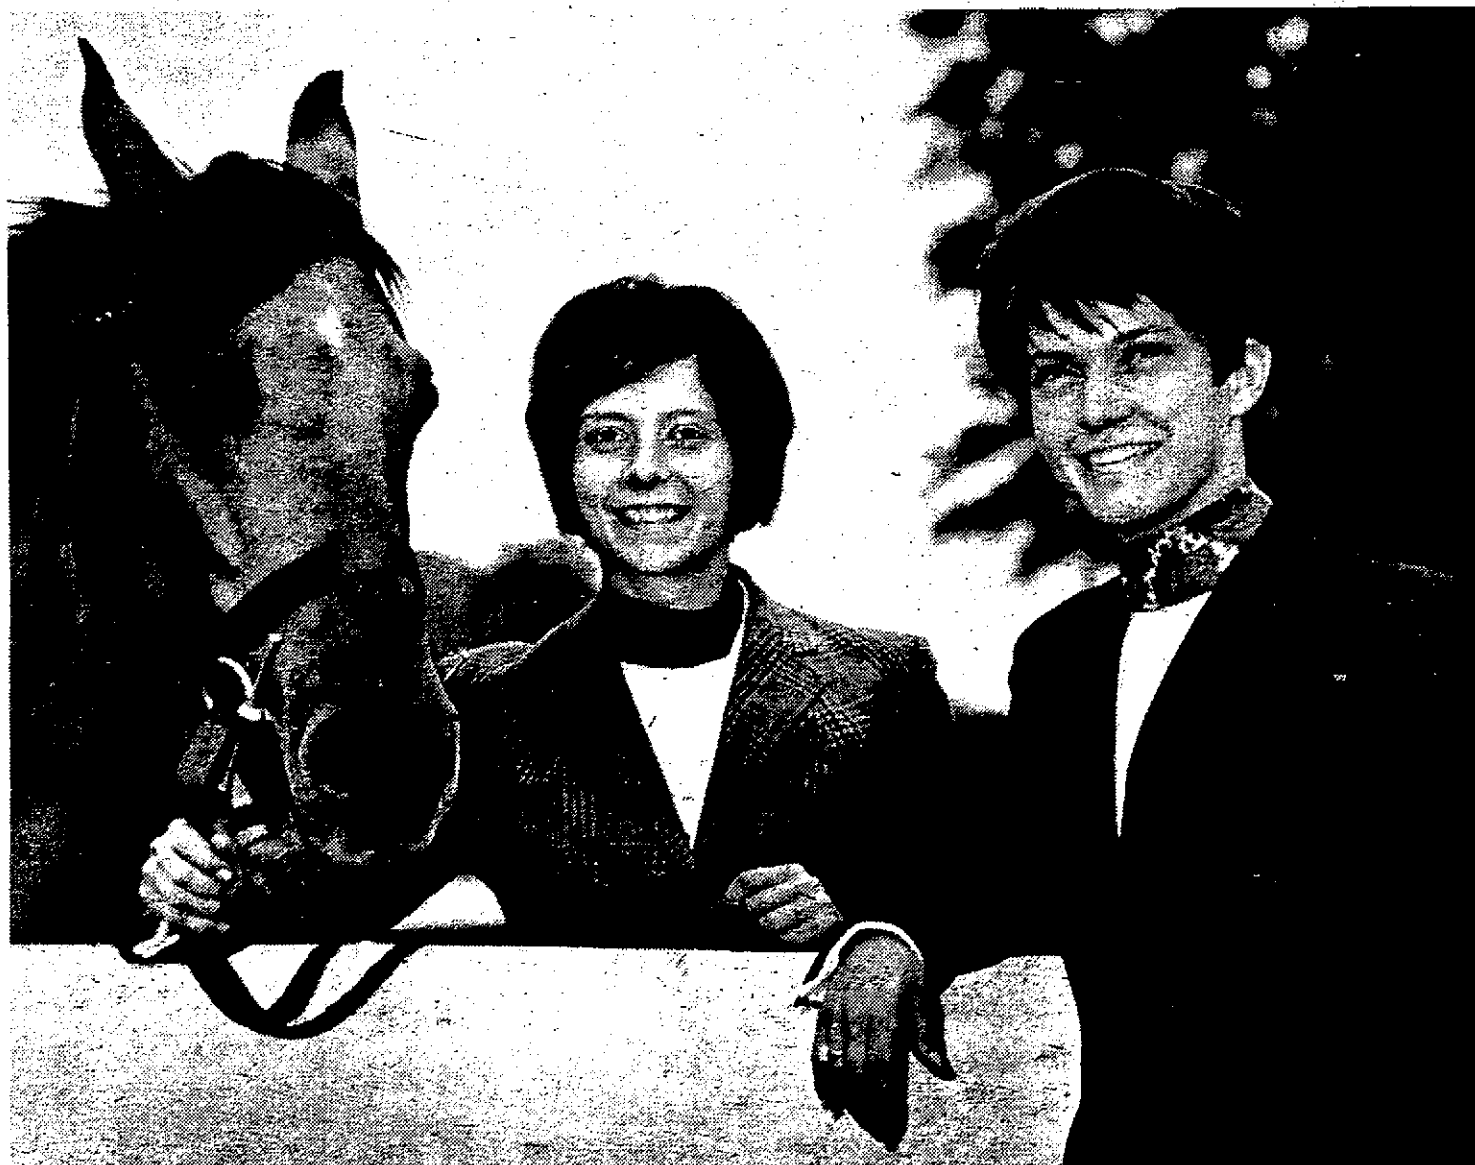

EXPANSION

Although Mortgage Hill officially opened May 1 much expansion is being planned. This structure will eventually house an indoor ring for show and training horses. Aside from the indoor ring there are presently three outdoor rings at Mortgage Hill and a jump ring is in the planning. The new jump ring will be located to the rear of this structure. Other plans include the construction of a new 20 stall stable, washroom and tack room.

CO-OWNERS

Diane Barone, left, and Judy Hohman are the co-owners of Mortgage Hill, stable and riding academy, located on Daugherty Run rd. Both girls are accomplished equestriennes in their own right and each brings to the new venture over 10 years experience in teaching horsemanship, and training and showing horses.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH-YOUNGVILLE

Religious Reserves

By Lyston R. Knappenberger, First United Methodist Church Youngville, Pa.

"Lay up something for a rainy day." The thought of having something in reserve, something over and above what may be ordinarily needed, something with which to meet an unforeseen emergency, is a very common mark or principle of our lives. Insurance companies must take a part of each premium paid and set it aside as a reserve over against the day when the policy may mature or a claim be made against it. The great irrigation projects of the west and southwest are examples of the principle of reserve. This same principle of the power of a reserve can be seen in the world of athletics. Often, the team with the better reserves wins.

Jesus, in the story of the ten bridesmaids, points out that reserves are as essential to religion as they are to other areas of life. You will recall, that the difference between the wise and foolish bridesmaids was one of reserves. The wise were prepared for life as they met it. The foolish were not. The foolish had neglected to build up any reserves so life passed them by when the test came. In all other respects the ten bridesmaids were much alike.

Much to their sorrow, the five foolish bridesmaids discovered that reserves could not be built up in a moment of sudden need. This is true of all types of reserves. It takes time to build them. Religious reserves are no exception. Many have discovered that the cupboard is bare in times of spiritual need.

What are the means whereby religious reserves can be built up so that life can be mastered? First and foremost, one must commit himself to Jesus Christ and his way of life. This involves the Christian attitude toward the universe, that behind it is a God of love who is best known as a Father and who orders the universe for the greatest goods of all his children on orderly lines which demand holiness or accord with his will. Also, it calls for the acceptance as revealed by one's practice that men are brothers. This commitment can be summed up in the words of Stanley Jones, "Let go and let God." A religious reserve is impossible apart from religious living. Religious living that matters is impossible without commitment to Christ.

Once commitment to Christ and his way has been made, religious reserve is created by the practice of holy habits. These are both personal and social. He who would build a religious reserve must plan in his living for meditation on the things of God, for prayer, and for worship—public and private. It means subjecting oneself to that spiritual discipline that shall give power to his spiritual muscles. He who rarely prays or attends a worship service in the church never builds any religious reserve. He uses up whatever spiritual strength he has as he goes along.

If you would build up an adequate religious reserve commit yourself to Christ and practice those holy habits which contribute to spirituality. Are you a spiritual spendthrift or a builder of religious reserves?

RICHARD HARATINE

Brain Drain

HARRISBURG -- Apparently spoofing the lawyers, a proposal in the State Senate provides that victims must be informed of their rights before the commission of a crime. "Such notice," says Senator William Lane, D-Washington, "may be oral or in writing, must state the nature of the crime to be committed, the time and place of such crime and advise the intended victim of his rights under the Constitution."

A l m o s t weekly in this Commonwealth of Excellence the wits and wags use the legislative machinery as an outlet for frustration. Some recent samples:

Haratine

LAST GASP--The resuscitator salesman have been here. Senator Stanley Noszka, D-Pittsburgh, has introduced a bill requiring any "place of public assembly which can accommodate 250 persons" to have a resuscitator and a trained operator on hand during an event.

BRAIN DRAIN--It used to be pop who shelled out dollar bills for "A's" on Report Cards. But as the Welfare State nears millennium, the Senate is considering legislation to accommodate still another segment of society. Under a proposal by Senator Ernest Kline, D-Beaver, the State would allocate $25,000 annually which teachers could give out--in sums of $1 to $25--to students who maintain top scholastic records.

WOMAN WAIVER--The U.S. Civil Rights Act of 1964 bans not only color discrimination but sex discrimination as a condition of employment. Notwithstanding, one proposal in the hopper of the State Senate would give the girls a break. "No female," it says, "shall be permitted to lift an object in connection with her employment. . . which shall exceed 35 pounds."

CAMPUS CAPERS--Those sit-ins, seizures and student efforts to help the deans run the college would be outlawed under two bills before the House of Representatives. One would require all State-aided, State-supported or State-affiliated colleges and universities to dismiss students who stop or disrupt the educational process--or lose their state funds. Another would take away scholarship money from students who participate in similar disturbances. The legislation makes no mention of panty raids.

ONE MAN, ONE PENCIL--A House bill requires that a pencil be placed in every voting machine.

BIG FAMILY--Home brewers and wine makers could ferment up to 200 gallons a year, under another House proposal--as long as they use it only for the family and guests.

DROWN YOUR SORROW--This one passed the House, but it's hung up in the Senate: Morticians, under legislation proposed by Rep. Miles Zimmerman R-Dauphin, would be prohibited from serving anything but water on the premises of a funeral establishment. Take your wakes to the corner bar.

DIAPER SET--Senator Freeman Hankins, D-Philadelphia, wants to disarm the diaper set by outlawing the sale of toy guns. "By condoning the sale of these 'toys,'" he says, "we are endorsing a concept for our youngsters that we deplore in our adults--that of pointing a deadly weapon at another person."

Happenings Years Ago

The county fathers, George Seavy, Orrin Loper and William Olney look only forward it was revealed today. The decision for this state of affairs was made for them by their car when it decided to dispense with the reverse gear mechanism and the result is the gentlemen are unable to go backward.

A California family of four narrowly escaped death or serious injury when their new automobile plunged through the iron pipe railing on the Route 6 overhead bridge near Youngsville, turned a complete summersault and came to a stop against a wooden utility pole along the Pennsylvania right-of-way.

1958

Word was received from William F. Crossett, attending the annual spring meet of the Antique Automobile Club of America at Lake Forest, Ill., that his 1903 Cadillac was judged first prize winner in its class: gasoline cars, one cylinder, not previously classified-to and including 1912.

DREW PEARSON

Army and Pvt. Decker

WASHINGTON--For the second time in two months, two burly sergeants pinned down Pvt. Richard Decker the other day while an Army nurse inoculated him contrary to his religious convictions.

His beliefs are so devout that, rather than submit to the second round of inoculations, he deserted the Army and came to us to explain his reasons. He was willing to serve in Vietnam or accept a 20-year sentence at hard labor, he said, rather than violate "the Lord's commandments."

We persuaded him to return to his post at Fort Knox, Ky., and promised to intervene with the Army in his behalf. Although we disagree with his religious views, we told his story to Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor, who took the case up with his top generals.

He called back to report that they had decided Decker would have to be inoculated. We appealed to him to reverse their decision, and he agreed to reconsider the case. While he was reconsidering, here is what happened to Decker.

He was summoned to see Lt. Col. Clark Williams, the post Surgeon General, who explained the medical reasons why we should take preventive medicine. A chaplain also tried vainly to persuade Decker to submit to inoculations. The slight, sincere young soldier said he felt the same way about compulsory inoculations as the chaplain might feel about being forced to commit sodomy.

Suddenly two large sergeants entered the room and attempted to seize Decker.

"I tried to run through them," said Decker. "There was a struggle as they grabbed hold of me. They tried to pry and pull my arms apart. I kept squirming and pushing, trying to get away. They finally broke my grip and pulled my arms apart. I kept pushing the best I could until I finally pushed one of them up against a corner of the room."

"Then both men wrapped their legs around mine so that I couldn't push or kick anymore. The one man held my arm so I couldn't move at all. The nurse gave me one shot. As she started to give me the second needle, I was able to pry loose enough to squirm a little more. But the men held me even tighter, and she put the second needle in the same arm.

"The doctor got an eye dropper which was filled with red liquid (polio vaccine). The doctor took my bottom lip and pinched it as you would put a twitch on a horse. He pulled my bottom lip down. I kept my teeth together, so he put the medication between my teeth and my lip."

After the ordeal, Colonel Williams grinned, grabbed Decker's hand and said: "No hard feelings."

Believe it or not but Ronald Reagan, elected governor of California two years ago in a smashing surprise upset, may be out of office before too long. Under California law it's possible to recall a governor, and right now a grass-roots campaign to do exactly that has rolled up a total of 650,000 signatures.

The grass-roots campaign is sparked by Ed and Joyce Koupal of Sacramento. They have hired no canvassers. It's all volunteer work. But opponents of Reagan have been out beating the bushes to the point where they are within 130,000 signatures of their goal. They must have 780,000 signatures by July 31.

The Koupals expect to gather about a million signatures in all. They figure they need extra names in case some voters change their mind and ask to be removed from the list.

Volunteer organizations have been set up in all 58 California counties. More than 300,000 names have come from the Los Angeles area alone. Watts produced 50,000 signatures. Most of California labor unions have pitched in to help.

The Senior Citizens Association, which worked for Reagan in the 1966 election, is now seeking his recall. Even Nobel Prize winner Dr. Joshua Lederberg, honored for his work on genetics, has been collecting signatures around San Francisco.

Reagan, who aspires to move into the White House in Washington, may be stepping down from the governor's mansion in Sacramento.

If so, he'll be replaced by Lt. Gov. Robert Finch, until a special election can be called.

The Gun Control Issue

Why has gun control become an ideological issue? Because that is what it is nowadays, the talk about the National Rifle Association as the single interested opponent to the contrary notwithstanding. The NRA is undoubtedly a skillful lobbying organization, but it is unlikely that all by itself, it could amass such power as is necessary to hold up legislation overwhelmingly desired by the people. And anyway, one can always check the readiest indices: the New Republic, reliable spokesman for the liberals, is for gun control; National Review, a voice for the conservatives, rejects gun controls, with qualifications.

There are some surprises here, moreover. Conservatives tend to be better mobilized in their opposition to crime in general. It is the conservatives who have bemoaned the relentless accretion of rights for defendants, at the expense of rights for policemen and district attorneys. It is the liberals who have insisted that we must develop the rights of individual defendants even at the risk of ever-increasing violence. Why now the sudden switch, with conservatives insisting on the rights of gun-ownership over against the possibility of a diminution in violence, and the liberals making the contrary emphases?

For one thing, conservatives are unsatisfied by the arguments that crime is an aspect of the number of guns in general circulation. And the proofs being offered are concededly shaky. The New York Times' favorite statistic is that in Mississippi, Texas, and Florida, where there are weak gun control laws, "guns were used respectively, in 71, 69, and 66 per cent of all murders during the four years ending in 1965. In three states with strong laws--New Jersey, Massachusetts, and New York--the comparable rate was 38, 35 and 32 per cent."

How useful are the figures, without the accompanying figures of murders per hundred-thousand in population? What about the different cultural categories and traditions? What about local disposal institutions, like New York's famous East River, which is where you go when you are taken for a ride?

Surely no one can reasonably argue against two reforms, both of them already enacted in several states. The first would call for a routine police check on anyone who seeks to buy a gun, which should be denied to any ex-felon, drug addict, or former patient at a mental institution, or to minors except with the consent of their parents. A second reform would be a cooling-off period between impulse and actual purchase.

The principal technical problem emerges: how can one prevent an individual who is cleared to buy and own guns, from passing them loosely around, as was done by the two or three people in the chain that lead from the original purchaser to Sirhan Sirhan? An intelligent compromise, surely, would require that individuals who dispose of guns take on the chore of requiring that persons to whom they give or sell their guns, come forward with such a police certificate as a purchaser needs to buy a gun at a sports store. A penalty could be prescribed, in other words, for anyone who disposes of guns thus loosely. An experiment along these lines, say for a period of five years or so, might be in order, with attention given to the problem of the existing supply (estimated at between 50 and 100 million) of unregistered guns.

The liberal-conservative paradox has, actually, to do with the keener nose that conservatives have for the weaknesses of the central state. It is a matter of instinct--the distrust of the state, both as a potential instrument of oppression, and as a potential defaulter in its obligation to protect. We have in recent years not only had the experiences with the state telling us every minute or two what to do, and taxing us for lunatic projects committed in every sphere of activity: we have also seen the state default in its clear obligations. It is clearly a default, for instance, when the state by insufficient protection permits an endless rise in robbery and muggings.

What a great many people in the United States want to have guns around for is in case they should need to use them for self-protection, in the event of a complete breakdown in law and order. Those who disdain that sentiment should perhaps imagine themselves a) with a gun, and b) without a gun, living with children in a tenement building and spotting an arsonist down the hall. In such contingencies, it is natural to desire speedier means of relief than a telephone call to the American Civil Liberties Union.
